Summer is the season to enjoy the great outdoors, and what better time to unwind and watch birds?

Birdwatching is for everyone - it's flexible, rewarding, and an easy way to connect with nature. It encourages you to slow down and notice details. It can be done as a shared activity with family and friends or while enjoying solitude. You can begin by simply feeding birds in your yard or watching them from a window. As interest grows, you can add binoculars, a field guide, or apps like Merlin to help identify species.

Join us as we slow down, connect with nature and enjoy Birdwatching at The Bird Rescue Center.
